Description of the role:

Labourers are involved in a range of practical tasks on a construction site, working on projects from foundation to completion. This includes preparing the site ahead of building work taking place and carrying out manual work whilst a project is in progress. Construction operatives complete a wide variety of tasks, ranging from mixing and pouring concrete, moving and unloading materials, operating machinery and more.

Opportunity to work for a well-respected national company with sites all over London. Scope for progression to supervisory level.

Key responsibilities:

- Helping skilled tradespeople with every aspect of the building process
- Being involved in projects from start to finish
- Following all health and safety procedures
- Mixing and pouring concrete to make foundations, beams or floors
- Digging trenches for foundations
- Fixing scaffolding and building frames
- Laying pavements and resurfacing roads
- Assisting bricklayers, carpenters and other colleagues on-site, by providing materials
- Marking out the area for the site using string lines and putting up barriers and safety signs
- Laying drainage pipes, pavements and manhole covers
- Operating hand machinery such as drills, pumps and compressors
- Operating machinery such as excavators and dumper truckers
- Working outdoors in all weathers.

Qualifications and experience required:

- Must hold a valid CSCS card
- Some exposure to a construction environment or experience at a site would be desirable
- Evidence of reliability and successfully working as part of a team
